A BY-LAW

For the Regulation of the Fire Department; for Electing Fire Engineers and Appointing Firemen, and Appointing their Salaries and Remuneration.

WHEREAS by "The Firemen's Act, 1864," it is enacted that from and after the passing of that Act the whole of the apparatus, whether engine, hose, hooks, ladders, or other articles used with, or belonging to, or in any way appertaining to, the Fire Department of the City of Victoria shall be deemed, for the purposes of that Act, to be the property of the Victoria Fire Department, subject to the order and control of the Mayor and Corporation of the City of Victoria;

And whereas by the "Municipal Act, 1881," and the Act to amend the same passed in the year 1883, it is enacted that in every Municipality the Council may from time to time make, alter, and repeal, by-laws for any of the following purposes, or in relation to matters coming within the classes of subjects next hereinafter mentioned (among others) that is to say:—(59) for the assistance and regulation of Fire Departments, and (91) for electing Fire Engineers and appointing Firemen, and promoting, establishing, and regulating Fire Companies, Hook and Ladder Companies, and Property Saving Companies, and to appoint such salaries and remuneration as may be necessary, subject to the proviso that any by-law made under the authority of sub-section 91 (now in recital) shall have no force or effect unless it contains provision that the Chief Engineer and Assistant Engineer be biennially elected by the Municipal ratepayers nor until the by-law has been submitted to the ratepayers of the Municipality and has been approved by them in the manner provided by Section 74, and sub-sections thereof, of the "Municipality Act, 1881;"

And whereas it is expedient that the Corporation of the City of Victoria should control and regulate the Fire Department of the City and make provision for the election of the Chief and Assistant Engineers thereof, and for the payment of the officers and firemen thereof;

And whereas the Chief Engineer, Assistant Engineer and Board of Delegates of the Fire Department of the City have consented to and approved of the arrangement and provision hereinafter made;

1. The Fire Department of the City shall henceforth consist of a Chief Engineer and an Assistant Engineer, to be elected as hereinafter mentioned, and three Foremen, two Engine Drivers, twelve Hosemen, six Hook and Ladder men and such Reserve Firemen as may from time to time be required, to be appointed as hereinafter mentioned.

2. Immediately after the final passing of this By-Law and thereafter biennially in the month of December in each alternate year, the Council shall by resolution fix a time and place, appoint a returning officer, and make other necessary arrangements for the election of a Chief Engineer and an Assistant Engineer of the Fire Department, in like manner as upon the election of a Mayor; and at such election every person who is rated upon the then last revised Assessment Roll of the City shall be entitled to one vote for each office; but if only one candidate be nominated for an office, the returning officer shall forthwith declare him duly elected without a poll.

3. The Chief Engineer and Assistant Engineer so elected as aforesaid shall respectively hold office until their successors are elected or appointed, or until, before that time, they shall die, resign, or cease to discharge their duties.

4. In case the Chief Engineer or the Assistant Engineer shall die, resign, or cease from any cause to discharge the duties of his office, the Council shall appoint some other competent person to the office in his place until the next biennial election.

5. The Foremen, Engine Drivers, Hosemen, Hook and Ladder Men and Reserve Firemen shall be appointed and may be removed from office from time to time by the Council.

6. The several officers of the Fire Department shall, while they hold and discharge the duties of their respective offices, be entitled to be paid therefor at the rates next hereinafter mentioned, namely,—

Chief Engineer.....	$700 per annum
Assistant Engineer.....	300 "
Foreman, each.....	150 "
Engine Driver, each.....	720 "
Hoseman, each.....	120 "
Hook and Ladder Man, each.....	120 "

And each Hoseman and each Hook and Ladder Man shall also be entitled to be paid 50 cents per hour or part of an hour while actually employed at a fire.

7. From and after the election of an Engineer and Assistant Engineer under this By-Law, it shall be lawful for the Council to take and hold possession of all the real and personal property of the Fire Department of the City, and all engines, machinery, and tools used by or in connection with the said Fire Department, and to assume the entire control and management thereof, and to make such rules and regulations as they shall deem necessary or expedient for carrying into effect this By-Law, and from time to time to alter and revoke such rules and regulations; and for all or any of these purposes the Fire Wardens shall be a Committee of the Council.

8. In addition to the officers and men hereinbefore mentioned the Fire Wardens may from time to time appoint such Reserve Firemen as they shall deem necessary or expedient, to be employed when called upon, in case of a fire, by the Chief Engineer or other officer acting in his place; and such Reserve Firemen, when so employed at a fire, shall be paid at the rate of $1 for the first hour or part of an hour and 50 cents for each subsequent hour or part of an hour per man. In case any Reserve Fireman shall be so-called upon and report himself at a fire but shall not actually be employed he shall be paid 50 cents.

9. The apparatus of the Fire Department shall consist of steam fire-engines, hose carts and hose, hook and ladder trucks, hydrants, water-tanks, fire ladders, fire alarms, and other necessary apparatus, in such numbers and quantities as shall from time to time be deemed necessary by the Council.

10. The Council shall from time to time set apart out of the general revenue of the City, such sum or sums of money as may be necessary to pay the salaries and remuneration hereinbefore mentioned, and otherwise to maintain the Fire Department in an efficient state.

11. Subject to this By-Law, and the rules and regulations to be made in pursuance thereof, the whole apparatus and management of the Fire Department shall be under the direction of the Chief Engineer; and at every fire the Chief Engineer or other the senior officer of the Department who may be present shall have sole control over all members or servants of the Fire Department, and all other persons engaged in suppressing the fire, and all engines and apparatus used therein; and every person present at a fire shall promptly obey every lawful order of such Chief Engineer or other senior officer.

12. This By-Law may be cited for all purposes as the "Fire Department By-Law, 1885."

PROVINCIAL SECRETARY'S OFFICE,
7th December, 1885.

THE following report of exploration of Queen Charlotte Islands is published for general information.

JNO. ROBSON,
Provincial Secretary.

REPORT OF EXPLORATION OF QUEEN CHARLOTTE ISLANDS.

VICTORIA, B.C.,
7th December, 1885.

SIR,—As the location of Queen Charlotte Islands is well-known, it is unnecessary to preface my report with any introductory remarks respecting their geographical position, but I will simply endeavour to give a brief description of the country examined, together with any information I can furnish respecting its varied resources.

Commencing at a stream known to the natives by the name of Nedo, which empties into the Masset Inlet at a distance of 12 miles from Masset village, we crossed the peninsula to what is known as the white cliffs, on the East Coast. From thence travelled down the coast four miles, towards Skidegate, and recrossed the peninsula, coming out again at a salt water slough about four miles south of Nedo Creek, our first starting point.

We did not discover any evidence of minerals beyond a few fine colours of gold in the sand and gravel on the East Coast, but there is no doubt that gold exists in formations of the same character in different parts of the peninsula; whether existing in paying quantities we had no opportunity to determine.

The country explored by us on this occasion was of a gently undulating character, chiefly covered with light timber of hemlock, cedar, scrub pine, alder, crab apple, willow, yew, and juniper, interspersed with extensive open patches of cranberry moss and grassy openings, consisting of several thousand acres of land capable of reclamation by drainage.

By examining these openings with a barbed stick, a substratum of clay and sand is found in many places near the surface; and as the general composition of these lands is of a light character, mixed with decayed vegetable matter, it is scarcely possible to estimate their future value.

MEADOW LAND.

In the middle of the peninsula we found a small lake surrounded by several hundred acres of flat meadow land, which could be easily placed in a state of cultivation. Trout was also abundant in the lake, whilst its surface was dotted with wild geese, some of which furnished us with an ample and enjoyable repast.

GENERAL REMARKS.

Nearly all open lands, which, as a rule, are too wet for the growth of timber, are of the class previously described, and even portions of the most undesirable, which are generally covered with moss, have an underlying formation of either sand or clay, or both mixed, which, having good drainage facilities, offer favorable inducements for settlement.

But as the reclamation of large areas would be beyond the means of individual effort, it would be accomplished much easier by the formation of small colonies, possibly aided by the Government. A chemical analysis of the soil or vegetable deposit might aid materially in determining its adaptation to useful economic purposes.

So far as discovered, the whole of the low country lying east and north of the mountains on Graham's Island has apparently been formed by wind and tidal influences.

MASSET PENINSULA.

Along the north shore of Masset Peninsula the beach is very wide at low water, and composed chiefly of sand, which in the summer season is drifted by the trade winds into high embankments, with immense deposits of sea-weed at their base, forming the nucleus of advanced embankments.

We found strata of clay in the interior containing clam shells of a recent age, and in such manner as to prove they were not deposited by human agency. The capabilities of the sandy loam and vegetable soil openings are confirmed by the same character of land to be found on the east coast of the island, extending to the white cliffs before mentioned.

On the top of the cliffs, and owing to drainage, the vegetable matter is more compact, and the winds of Hecate channel having drifted the sand over it, has formed into a light loam covered with a luxuriant growth of grass and underwood, proving that such lands, when properly drained, are valuable for agricultural or grass-growing purposes.

EXCELLENT LAND.

On our way back from the East Coast we traversed several miles of very good land, commencing almost at the coast line and extending fully one-third of the distance across the peninsula.

The prevailing timber was alder and crab apple, the soil being a mixture of sand and clay interspersed with black vegetable mould, and on the whole could be easily cleared and made available for tillage.

TIDAL LANDS.

On both sides of the salt water slough in Masset Inlet there is a long stretch of good land which could be reclaimed by low dyking, as it is only subject to overflow from the highest tides.

Sandstone crops out in several places in the slough, and indicates the presence of coal underneath the whole of this low-lying country; and as coal is known to exist in many parts of the island it is not unlikely but that the coal measures are as prolific as those of Vancouver.

SPONGES.

On our way up the inlet we found a sponge, and were told by Mr. McKenzie that there were several beds of sponges in that locality; and, judging from the quality of those found, it is quite possible that at a greater depth sponges equal to those imported may be found at some future date, and even sought after as a remunerative enterprise.

RIVER AWYNE.

Our next trip extended up the River Awyne to prospect the timber belt said to exist in that locality; also minerals, if any. This stream is of considerable size, containing a number of falls and rapids for the first 2½ miles from salt water. By blasting some points of rocks and cutting away timber jams, logs could be successfully floated to the inlet.

At the head of the rapids there is a small lake suitable for storing logs, and at a further distance of about two miles there is a much larger lake, at but a very slight elevation above the lower one. There are numerous sloughs running into the low timber lands surrounding the large lakes which could be utilized for logging purposes. This lake appears to be about 25 miles long, and from one to one-half mile wide. We followed the shore line to the extreme limit and examined the streams leading into the lake; also prospected up the streams situate on its north and west banks.

VOLCANIC FORMATION.

The whole of the country appeared to be of a volcanic nature, consequently void of minerals. The timber at the north end of lake, and particularly north of the river, is extensive, in patches consisting chiefly of cedar and spruce, also some yellow cedar, but the various patches of timber are too scattered to be deemed of much commercial value at present, although, taken in the aggregate, the area is large, and the facilities for handling very good.

The mouth of the creek is also very favorably situated for a mill site, and the location for a dam for driving purposes cannot be excelled anywhere.

MORE GOOD LAND.

Along the stream emptying into the north end of lake there are several hundred acres of good land, but portions of it are heavily timbered, and communication with salt water at present difficult.

This stream is an Eldorado for anglers, as very fine large trout are plentiful and take the fly readily.

We next prospected an arm or inlet which extends from the south-west side of Masset Inlet for a distance of 15 miles, and up the Patlem River about five miles, not far distant from the West Coast.

We found the formation to be of the same volcanic nature, and containing no minerals of any value, with the exception of one place along the north side of the arm, where we discovered a vein of obsidian in sandstone, and apparently in a similar formation to that in which anthracite coal is found, being between walls of sandstone and resembling anthracite so closely that it was only when we fractured it we discovered its nature.

MAMIM RIVER AND ARM.

We next prospected the Mamim Arm and river of that name; also intended to prospect around a lake at its source, but were unable to procure a canoe and were obliged to return. We found some pieces of igneous coal on this stream, but not in any quantity.

TOW HILL.

Returning to Masset for supplies, we were informed by Mr. McKenzie of indications of coal oil at Tow Hill, about 16 miles from Masset; so we followed the shore line to that place, only to discover that the indications were of the same character as those previously seen by us, composed chiefly of iron, vegetable scum, and sulphur.

Ascending to the top of a high hill we obtained a good view of the country, which was similar in character to that already described. Returning to the beach, we found an outcropping of

LIGNITE COAL,

Between high and low water mark. The sandstone appeared to be of the same character as that found in Masset Inlet, and no doubt underlies the whole of that vast section of flat country. There is a large creek near Tow Hill with considerable spruce timber on its banks, but it could not be boomed on account of exposed coast and lack of facilities for shipping. Pieces of lignite coal were found amongst the gravel at the mouth of the creek, but as it was of little value we did not deem it worthy of further research.

We then returned to Masset with the resolve of traversing the interior of the country to Skidegate, and bought a canoe suitable for going up the river Ya Koun. Leaving Masset behind us, we proceeded up the river which heads in a lake situate in the rear of Slate Chuck and Mount Needham. About seven miles north of the Coal Company's land, Skidegate Channel, the river runs in a northerly direction and enters the south end of Masset Inlet.

At an Indian encampment near the mouth of the river we were intercepted by several Indians, who objected to our going up the river, but we informed them of our determination to do so, and resumed our journey unmolested.

RIVER YA KOUN.

This river is one of the largest and most important in the group of Queen Charlotte Islands. At a medium stage of water, when cleared of obstructions, the river is navigable for light draught stern-wheel steamers for 15 or 20 miles from its outlet. It averages about 100 feet in width, with gently flowing current.

FIRST-CLASS LAND.

The land on both sides of the river is a rich alluvial soil of great depth, and although a deal of it is heavily timbered, there are large tracts of alder and salmon berry bottoms easily cleared.

Judging from what we saw, there cannot be less than 30,000 acres of rich agricultural land in the Ya Koun valley, available for settlement. At a short distance from the outlet of the river we found small pieces of bituminous coal, and, being a coal formation, we examined the banks of the river very minutely for a considerable distance, but found no other indications until our arrival at the outlet of some small streams situate about 28 miles above the mouth of the river. At this point we picked up some more pieces of bituminous coal, and on closer examination of the locality discovered more coal under the roots of a large tree which had been blown down by the wind.

Proceeding up a small creek we found other good samples, and subsequently an outcropping of good bituminous coal, which, on being burnt, emitted a clear, bright flame, producing scarcely any ash, and showing but little or no signs of sulphur, appearing in every respect a much superior coal to what is termed the best Wellington.

The sandstone is of a light greyish colour, specimens of which we brought with us, and the conformation of the surrounding country of a uniform character.

These measures appear to embrace a very large area of country, the outcroppings occurring in the centre of an apparently large coal-producing district, and of superior quality; also in sufficient quantity to pay for development from the surface.

The importance of this coal discovery is still further enhanced by the fact of its being surrounded by large tracts of first-class land, sufficient to support a large colony of settlers, who would produce among themselves a good portion of the supplies needed for works of development, and form the centre around which new enterprises would cluster and prosper in healthy competition with each other.

The distance from Masset Inlet to Skidegate is computed by Mr. Dawson and others to be about 28 miles, which must be an error, for after travelling that distance we found that it was at least 20 miles further than anticipated.

In some places we had great difficulty in getting our canoe up the river, owing to scarcity of water and large piles of driftwood. We were also informed by the Indians that the present season was the dryest ever known on Queen Charlotte Islands. If the river were cleared of obstructions for the first 20 miles, it would be easy for settlers to take in supplies, either by light draught steamers or canoes.

SHOULD BE SURVEYED.

I would respectfully suggest an early survey of the land alluded to, and an arrangement entered into with the Indians whereby this fine tract of country could be open for settlement, and more particularly by a colony of hardy pioneers, who would be greatly assisted by cheap communication and an adequate mail service.

ANOTHER LAKE.

From the coal outcropping or seam we went up to the lake and prospected the streams which form its source, but did not discover anything of value. This lake is from five to six miles long, and from one-half to three-quarters of a mile wide. The outlet is on the east side of the lake and runs in a northerly direction past the north end of the lake, there being but a small divide between them. The general character of the land is rocky, with some small arable patches not worthy of mention.

GRAND SIGHT.

On leaving the lake we climbed to the top of a mountain, from which we had a magnificent view of the whole country lying north-east and west of our location, and from its summit obtained one of those rare sights not often seen by human eyes.

To the west could be seen vast masses of rugged and tureted mountains, with their wild gorges and glens stretching hither and thither, connecting the base of each glittering or grassy peak into one grand panorama.

To the north and south could be seen huge mountains rearing their lofty heights and frowning defiance at the ocean's tidal waves, whilst the shimmering waters of Rennel Sound, glistening like a blade of steel, could be seen through the opening of the mountains beyond, almost forming a connection with Lake Ya Koun, lying peacefully at our feet, and, surrounded by the deep dark foliage of the western wilds reflected in its placid depths, looking grand and solemn.

In a southerly direction could be seen Skidegate Inlet, with its numerous timber covered islands, bays and coves, in pleasing contrast to the deep blue water which environed them on every hand; and still farther did the serried mass of hill and mountain rise until lost in the distance.

Eastward, the eye revels in the same stupendous scene of rugged inequalities, covered with the green foliage of the forest, with darker shades between marking the sinuosities of numerous streams trending their way towards the blue waters of Hecate Channel.

Northerly and behind the sea-coast wall of mountain and hill lies a vast plain as far as the eye can reach; a land awaiting the coming of the hardy pioneer to awaken it from its slumbering uselessness to a condition of usefulness and productiveness.

No doubt the time is rapidly approaching when these islands will be the scene of great activity, furnishing food and other supplies to the vast mineral regions of the north and north-west coast, and by such means reduce the cost of supplies and further the interests of various mining communities. And, if for no other reason than the one stated, every inducement should be given to parties capable of forming small colonies, so that the nucleus of rising and prosperous communities can be formed on a basis of progression and mutual protection.

Whilst on the summit of the mountain we killed a bear and camped there for the night. Next day we arrived at the coal company's house, Skidegate Channel, and from thence made our way to the oil company's works. At this place we hired the old Gold Harbour Chief Scots Gay and went to Gold Harbour, but were very much disappointed on arrival there, as we found no evidence of a lode, and the work done on the supposed vein did not exceed in depth more than two or three feet below high water mark. The formation, as far as I know, may be called dorite, intersected with small veins of lime, spar, and quartz, but in the whole of my experience have never found minerals of any value in a formation of that character. Every small vein resembling quartz, in the vicinity of Gold Harbour, has been prospected and the old workings thoroughly examined.

While Mr. Shields was exploring Rennel Sound I prospected the adjacent mountains, finding several quartz veins, but no evidence of gold or any other mineral except copper, specimens of which I brought with me to Victoria. The whole of that surrounding country has been prospected, traces of which I discovered in several directions, but I do not think the copper had been discovered before.

We returned to Skidegate and went from thence to Cumshewa Island to see the deposit of coal oil said to have been found there, but found the formation to consist of solid granite, with no possibility of such a thing occurring in its vicinity. We afterwards prospected Cumshewa Inlet from one end to the other, also the streams emptying into it, but found nothing worthy of note.

The mountain tops around Gold Harbour, and nearly all along the west coast, are for the most part free of timber and well covered with grass that would furnish excellent feed for sheep, goats and deer, all of which ought to thrive well there, as there are no wolves or panthers known to exist on the islands, bruin being the only animal likely to cause any trouble.

CARIBOO DEER.

There is said to be a large species of deer, supposed to be cariboo, lately found in the mountains south and west of Virago Inlet. There are also a few deer that have been placed there by Mr. A. McKenzie, of the H. B. Co.'s post at Masset, and if a few more were added, as well as a few goats, they would rapidly increase, especially in that section of country. A colony of rabbits was also liberated by the same gentleman, and are now very numerous. His next project, I believe, is the raising of beavers.

Charts of the various inlets, bays and estuaries are very much needed, and should be compiled either by the Dominion or Imperial authorities, as the time is not far distant when they will be in great demand, and especially when the varied resources of the islands become generally known to capitalists seeking investment or settlers in search of homesteads, where they can live happy, free and prosperous.

In conclusion, I beg to state that I was ably assisted in the work of exploration by Mr. James Shields, and found him a most valuable auxiliary. I also desire to express my thanks to Mr. Hall of Fort Simpson, Mr. A. McKenzie of the H. B. Co.'s post at Masset, and Messrs. Sterling and Tenant of Skidegate Oil Works, all of whom treated us with uniform kindness, and did their utmost in furthering the object of our desire.

I have, etc.,
(Signed) W. A. ROBERTSON.

To the Hon. Wm. Smithe,
Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works.
